

JLM Pacific Epoch

HOME HEADLINES SECTORS JLM CHINA BLOG INTERVIEWS AND SPECIAL REPORTS 🔝 JL N

Rumor: Government to Spur Solar M&A With RMB 4B Subsidy RECEN Aliba Posted on Jan 09, 2009 | 15:01 Email to friend BOE China China The Chinese government plans to give two "representative" companies a subsidy of RMB 2 billion each to Hand acquire or merge with small- and medium-sized solar wafer manufacturers, reports digitimes.com.tw quoting an unnamed solar industry insider. More than 250 mainland module companies have recently Touc stopped production and rumors said 145 wafer companies have undergone mergers, said the report. Sunt Shan Digg submit Gom Shan Tags: Clean Tech Solar RELATED HEADLINES Suntech Signs 5MW Contract for Abu Dhabi's Ca... LDK Marks First Production Run in 1,000-Ton P... China Windpower to Provide 400MW in Hebei Pro... Wind Turbine Producer's China Investment to E... Canadian Solar Opens U.S. Head Office, Expect... CIGS Thin-Film Solar Module Produced in Nanka...

Thin-Film Company CTDC Banks $36M Credit Line... First-Stage 50MW Wind Power Project Complete ...

> About JL McGregor & Company | Privacy notice | Terms of use Copyright © JL McGregor & Company 2003-2008, All Rights Reserved.

Suntech Sets Rumor Straight: 800, Not 4,000, ...

A-Power, GE Transportation Partner on Wind Tu...

Contact us | About JLM Pacific Epoch |

🚔 Nev