More power to wind

China is looking to expand its wind power generating capacity to 100,000 mW by 2020, or five times the previous target, said Shi Pengfei, vice-president of the Chinese Wind Energy Association.

Shi said the National Development and Reform Commission has just completed an internal meeting to discuss the possibility of increasing wind power capacity to 100,000mW. "It's not 20,000mW or 30,000mW as previously targeted," Shi said.
